RPC

AT RPC, YOU CAN BE YOU.

IN AN ENVIRONMENT THAT'S REAL.

STRIKINGLY REAL.

Do you want a career that values personality as much as professionalism? For us, business success comes from building real relationships and thinking creatively to achieve the best solutions.

So if you value character over conformity, the unique over the uniform, and ambition over apathy, let's talk.

YOUR

TRAINING

We know you'll deliver your best if you're free to be you. And that means being supported to develop your strengths and having the right opportunities to grow.

Whether you're handling complex insurance claims, resolving large-scale global disputes, or providing cutting-edge commercial advice and transactional support, your opinions will be listened to. And respected.

At least six months will be spent in four different areas of our practice so you can discover where you fit in the best. You may also get an opportunity to complete an international secondment in one of our offices overseas.

THE SELECTION

PROCESS

We run a summer programme in our Hong Kong office for candidates with Chinese capability.

Successful applicants will spend two weeks with us, during which you'll have time in both of our Insurance & Commercial Disputes and Corporate teams to experience different practice areas.

WHO CAN

APPLY?

At RPC, we know that you'll do your best if you're free to be yourself. That's why if you're an ambitious, open-minded adventurer, this might be the placement for you.

You'll need at least a 2.1 degree or equivalent, be fluent in Mandarin and English, and the ability to read and write Chinese.

Summer scheme students are exposed to real-life trainee tasks and surrounded by approachable legal professionals. The internship is short yet it has offered a realistic snap shot of the firm – a great balance between challenging work and fun networking events. Following the internship, I knew for certain that I would be delighted to start my traineeship with RPC, a firm that has a genuinely friendly and inclusive culture.

ANGEL LEUNG
FUTURE TRAINEE (2021 INTAKE)
